

Is this the Dawning of The Age of..

As I begin this blog anew, I need to give all a reference point to anchor the start. Today January 25, 2020 was the start of President Trumps Impeachment Defense in the Senate. Tensions are a little high... But for me the sad thing is to have been continually attacked by people I am pretty sure have never read the constitution beyond the first line "We The People"... to watch them jump up and down and give the world Middle finger Salutes. Sadly it feels more like an SEC Football game than a Constitutional Crisis. I keep asking them, do you have a clue what happens once we take away all the means of policing a president? Tell him he is right, he can do what ever he wishes to do...

All I get back is you are an intellectual snob. We are Kicking your Butt. You need to kiss our ass now...

Then I turn to talk with my friend in the Philippines. That country in Southeast Asia we used to govern. It was Called the Pearl of the Orient. It's also a constitutional democracy. The people are considered the best educated in South East Asia.

Yet their country once a great rice exporter, a great coconut exporter, With great fisheries and sugar fields as far as the eye can see in places... Biggest export in the year 2020... Overseas workers. People cant find jobs that pay a livable wage, even with university degrees.

Did you know approximately half the Nurses working in America are Philippine Nationals?

Yah it seems about 50 years ago they had a President who was told he could do what ever he wanted... and he did. More or less over the next 10 years He looted every dime the Philippine treasury had, He got control of the import/export industry, and milked it dry, he got hold of the Sugar industry and milked it dry...

His wife was walking around in Diamond crusted shoes. While his country began to starve. Yes there was an uprising they managed to kick him out.... To Hawaii. Where reports say the giant boxes of Pampers his family was seen taking with them, off the plane were filled with Jewelry and Treasure. The accountants say he left with $10 Billion stolen from the Philippines. To this day in 2020, they haven't recovered any measurable amount of money.

To this day, Jobs are scarce for most in the Philippines. The capital used to build the beautiful High rises around the country seems to come from China and Singapore. They aren't built to help the Philippine workers, they are built so the rich tourists can enjoy The heaven God made, when he created the Philippines. Behind ever Luxury condo, you will find a slum that would make Watts or Richmond Ca feel rich.

Yes I love the Philippine People, and America is my home... But some how, I see a future not far down the road where that shining city on top of the hill, will be built for outsiders; while Americans look on hoping to make enough to get their bread today, and their ex-president is escaping to Davos playing with the Jet Setters.

As for those of you who think I am some sort of Liberal Hack... and this all is just a Political game. I worry for you. I get mad at you. God gave you so much, and you have pissed so much away. It's not Politics... it is existence. The pictures I depict are pictures I have witnessed. Mansions rotting away. White beaches so polluted all that washes ashore is green slime. Trucks puffing out so much smoke you cough for half an hour after one passes. iPod ear phones selling in the foreigners shopping center for more money than a Hospital Charges for an emergency room visit. It doesn't take long at all. Thats what I have seen.
